Forecast For Northeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Tuesday 09 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Very cold with snow showers and brisk easterly winds.

Today:
Snow showers continuing, with some brightness between showers, bringing further accumulations which may lead to some disruption with drifting snow. Icy stretches will persist on untreated surfaces with a bitterly cold easterly wind - strong near coasts. Maximum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Tonight:
Snow and hail showers will continue to affect all areas overnight, with some brief clear spells. It will feel bitterly cold with a hard frost. Brisk winds. Minimum temperature -5 deg C (23 deg F).

Wednesday:
Snow showers continuing through Wednesday might turn lighter and less frequent later, with some bright or sunny spells. Northeasterly winds will be less strong than of late. Feeling very cold. Maximum temperature 1 deg C (34 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Drier and brighter during Thursday with light winds, Strong southeasterly winds developing for Friday and Saturday with a chance of snow showers - mainly near coasts. Staying very cold.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.